Monday, December 27*th*, 1742. [Numb. 457.]

GENOA, [in Italy] Auguſt 25.

THE Republick ſeems to be at her Wits End; perplexed on the one Hand at the Conduct of the Engliſh, alarm'd on the other Hand by the Views of another Power, and terrified with the Apprehenſions of what is likely to happen in Corſica. The turbulent Genius of the Inhabitants of that Iſland begins again to ſhew itſelf in its proper Colours: The Inhabitants of Bologna have rung the Alarum or Fire Bell, and demand of the Republick on what Footing Matters are to be put in Regard to them, and whether the new intended Regulation is to be guaranteed by France. It is no longer doubted that the King of Sardinia has caſt a longing Eye upon Savona, as was lately mention'd; and tho' the Senate omit nothing that may put it in a Poſture of Defence, yet we foreſee that we muſt ſoon loſe it, if the Engliſh ſhould take it into their Heads to make good his Sardinian Majeſty's Claim to that Place.

Genoa, Sept. 20. We juſt hear, that one of the French Men of War which were cruizing off the Bay of Tunis, is loſt between Cape Negre and Buzerti, and that near 100 of the Crew were drowned; thoſe that eſcap'd with their Lives were taken by the Tuniſeans. In the Number of thoſe that periſhed was Monſ. de Caſtillon, the Commander, and his Brother.

Genoa, Sept. 22. Upon Advice that the Engliſh intended to make a Deſcent at Final, under the Pretext of ſearching for Proviſions deſtin'd for the Spaniards, the Government has ordered the greateſt Part of the Proviſions laid up there to be brought into this City.

Bologna, [in Italy] September 18.

Count Traun has ſent an Expreſs hither to demand of the Senate to cauſe all the Spaniards in this City to retire, with Threatnings, in caſe of Refuſal, to ſend a Detachment of his Troops to drive them away by Force. We are aſſured that this General, upon Advice that the Spaniards were returning back to this Province, has demanded a Paſſage again to meet them.

Germany. Vienna, [in Auſtria] Sept. 19.

Count Eſterhaſi has Orders to repair forthwith from the Army to the Court of Dreſden. His Royal Highneſs the Great Duke was on the 5th Inſtant at Beraun It is hoped that the Junction with Count Khevenhuller will be made at or about Furth, between Chamb and Waldmunchen.

Vienna, Sept. 22. M. Seckendorff is poſted behind the Naab, which falls into the Danube above Ratisbon. There is ſome Appearance of the Enemy's retrenching themſelves behind that River. They have left a conſiderable Garriſon at Straubing, while Marſhal Khevenhuller, after having left one likewiſe at Deckendorff, with ſeveral Parties to exact Contributions, marched the 16th, and is arrived with the main Army at Chamb, and has poſted a Body at Waldmunchen. The Great Duke's Army repoſed Yeſterday at Pilſen, and the Junction will be on the 25th Inſt.

Vienna, Sept. 29. Marſhal Broglio is advanced out of his old Camp under the Cannon of Prague, as far as to Stern. A Lieutenant Colonel to Lobkowitz has been made Priſoner at Plan with 200 Horſe, by his own Fault, for not camping out of, inſtead of poſting himſelf in that little Town In Revenge of this, the Auſtrians have taken 600 Horſes for Recruits.

Vienna, Sept. 30. There is now Advice, that the French have taken the Poſt of Milneck, Four German Miles from Prague. From the main Army, that the Great Duke and Marſhal Count Khevenhuller, join'd on the 26th Inſtant near Plan; and the Marſhal de Maillebois and Count Maurirus of Saxe, about the ſame Time, at Heilig Crutz near Brammahoff.

Low Countries. Bruges, [in Flanders] September 22.

Several Battalions of National Troops, have paſs'd by this City going to Nieuport. The Britiſh Troops have receiv'd Orders to hold themſelves in Readineſs to take the Field the on firſt Notice: Nay, it is reported that they will begin their March To morrow for the Place of Rendezvous, and there wait for the King of Great Britain's Arrival. It is confidently given out that his Britannick Majeſty will open the Campaign with the Siege of Dunkirk.

Germany. Duſſeldorp, [in Weſtphalia] October 2.

The Heſſian Troops have paſs'd the Rhine, and continue their Route to Flanders: Thoſe of Hanover march thro' the Territories of the King of Pruſſia, that Monarch having granted them a free Paſſage

From the Great Duke's Head Quarters at Pilſen, [in Bohemia] Sept 20.

We arrived here Yeſterday, after having marched with the greateſt Diligence. On our Arrival we were informed, that there was a Detachment of the Enemy at Waidhauſen, on which the Grand Duke ordered a ſmall one of Dragoons, under the Command of General Schmertzling, who attacked and killed about 200, and put the reſt to Flight. General Marſhal Khevenhuller is expected here To morrow, and we reckon in four Days to join the Army at Chamb, where he lies encamped. Major General Helfreick and General Nadaſti, have joined, and have taken Poſſeſſion of a moſt advantageous Poſt at Roſshault We hear that they are part at Amberg and part at Mathauſen; that Maillebois's Corps conſiſts of about 25,000 Foot, 4500 Horſe, and 3000 Dragoons, with a Free Company of 700 Men. That Seckendorff with his Body of Cologneſes and Palatines, lies encamped behind the Naab, where they are intrenched. We learn from Prague of the 17th, that the French have in a triumphant Manner taken Poſſeſſion of their old Camp on the Moldau, and had made a Sally towards a Village call'd Verjoritz, half an Hour from Prague, where they were pillaging what they could find, which was but little, but being attack'd by our Hungarians, they loſt about 40 of their Men, and the Reſt retired into the Town The Blockade of Prague is compoſed of the following Troops under General Feſtititz and General Forgatz, of Lycaners 2194, of Sclavonians 1052, of the Saave 250, of the Danube 400, of ſeveral Regiments of Huſſars 4323, of Feſtititz's own Regiment 400, of Raſcians 450, and of Trenichiners 241.

From the Auſtrian Army at Haid [in Bohemia] Sept. 22.

The Army having decamped the 20th from Pilſen, arrived here Yeſterday. That of Count Khevenhuller at the ſame Time penetrating thro' Waldmunchen, will join us here to Day. On our Arrival in this Camp we learnt, that the French were winding towards the Left, and taking the Rout of Egra; upon which it has been reſolved to follow them thither: But as we are not ſure they will take this Step, and leſt they ſhould turn ſome other Way, Orders have been ſent to General Feſtitiz to leave 3 or 4000 Huſſars in the Neighbourhood of Prague, and march towards Pilſen with the Reſt of his Troops.

From the Auſtrian Camp at Haid, Sept. 24.

We have juſt received Advice that the French have ſurprized the Town of Plan, and made the Garriſon Priſoners of War. We have likewiſe another Piece of bad News, which is, that they have ſurprized a ſmall Body of Dragoons commanded by Colonel Lobkowitz, which were encamped in that Neighbourhood This will certainly open a Paſſage to all Marſhal Maillebois's Army, ſo that a Battle muſt quickly follow, for which our Troops are extremely eager.

Diſcover

Different Accounts having been publiſhed as to the Strength of this Army, it may not be amiſs to obſerve, that ſince our Junction with Veldt-Marſhal Khevenhuller we make about 50,000 Men

Germany. Nurembergh, (in Franconia) Sept. 21.

We have received the following News from Marſhal Maillebois's Army. This General having been join'd by the Body of Troops commanded by Count Mauritius of Saxe, advanced with the greateſt Part of his Army towards the Frontiers of Bohemia, with a Deſign, as it appeared, to penetrate into that Kingdom thro' the Defiles, in the Neighbourhood of Waidhauſen, Haid, &c. but all thoſe Paſſes were guarded by Auſtrian Troops. As they heard at the ſame Time that Prince Charles of Lorrain's Army was arriv'd in the Neighbourhood of Pilſen, and made long Marches in order to diſpute the Entrance into Bohemia with Marſhal Maillebois, his Excellency reſolved to take the Rout to Egra, in order to penetrate with more Eaſe into that Kingdom, and be at the ſame Time nearer to his Magazines: Purſuant to this Reſolution, General Balincourt was detatch'd with ſome Troops, in order to take Poſt at Plan, a Place in Bohemia near Egra, and this Detachment was ſuſtained by the Corps commanded by the Count de Saxe. In the mean Time the Marſhal, who remained in his Camp near Welſhoven, made Preparations as if he intended to force thro' the Defiles, which put the Auſtrians upon a wrong Scent: But the Count de Saxe having made himſelf Maſter of the Defiles on the Side of Egra, and the Duke de Harcourt having taken Poſt in the Plain near Plan, Marſhal Maillebois re-aſſum'd his March the 10th, and arrived the 12th at Moring, from whence he proceeded into Bohemia, where the whole Army re-aſſembled.

From the Marſhal Maillebois's Camp at Brauſſerhoff, [in Bohemia] Oct. 1.

The Count de Saxe having gone out to reconnoitre the Enemy with a Detachment of 300 Dragoons and 200 Grenadiers, met with a Detachment of 800 Auſtrians; the Engagement was very ſharp, and the latter had about 100 Men kill'd and wounded: We had about 40 Men killed and 50 taken Priſoners.

Germany. Dreſden, (in Upper Saxony) Sept 22.

We hear that ſince the Junction of the Count de Saxe with Marſhal Maillebois the French Army conſiſts of about 60,000 Men.

Dreſden, October 4. The laſt Advices we have received from Bohemia ſay, that the Auſtrian and French Armies were in Sight of each other; that they began to cannonade one another the 28th of laſt Month, and continued doing ſo to the 29th and 30th; that there is nothing but a little River between them, and that the Auſtrians began to lay Bridges over it the firſt Inſtant. We now judge that there will ſoon be a deciſive Action, or elſe, that the Chiefs of the two Armies will agree upon a Suſpenſion of Arms.

(Count Maurice of Saxony, and Count Seckendorff, are eſteemed two very enterprizing Generals, (in the Emperor or Elector of Bavaria's Service)
